MUSIC REVIEW: JOURNALISTS

Mr. Ramirez: Athletic Instructor

A lot of music dropped last week, Some of the most steamed over the weekend was Drake's new mixtape "Dark Lane Demo Tapes" , Khelani's Album "it was good until it wasn't", even Nav's "Good Intentions". Obviously these artists are going to do numbers regardless of what they drop, that doesn't mean it's going to be good. The good thing about our reviews is that we can be completely honest without receiving any backlash for not liking a certain song or artist, so feel free to give some constructive criticism. I personally listened to some of the new music and didn't like some of it, but i think overall they all had strong projects.

GAMING NEWS FOR YOU :

Call Of Duty League More Online Issue?

Over the weekend, Florida Mutineers hosted their Home Series in the Call of Duty League. After playing well for the previous weeks, it was their turn to host and maybe take a championship.

Well, the Florida Mutineers didn't become champions for their home series, they lost and didn't qualify. One of the biggest news of this past weekend was from the London Royal Ravens team, when one of their players was told that they had 5-10 minutes before their match.

Just like any big major sporting event they have sponsors and they need to make sure they abide by those sponsors rules. One example, let's say Prepa tec gets sponsored by Coca Cola, we can't have any of our students, staff caught with any Pepsi Cola or we will be taken away from our sponsor.

So what happened was that one of their players went to refill a Mountain Dew flask they had with water and while he was away the match official asked if everyone from the London Royal Ravens was ready, four out of the five players said yeah as the last one was filling his flask.

The Official went ahead and began the match and while away the opposing team stacked up 100 points which is already close to half way to winning the map count. Officials were told and they told them they had to finish the match that there wasn't anything they can do about it.

So, was it communication problems that occurred? Was it an online issue? Apparently, teammates were calling for the official and the official didn't have his headset on, what can the league do in order to improve or not make costly mistakes for the teams?
